

YUANJIE CHEN

BIO

Yuanjie Chen is a multidisciplinary artist, based in New York City. Presently, Yuanjie is focused on making sculptures and installations. Paraffin wax, concrete, ready-made materials, and acrylic are some of many materials utilized by the artist. Family, self-consciousness, and culture are some major subjects in the work. The relationship between material and space created a shock factor - so the artist focused on the language between different materials; a vocabulary is conjured-up from stereotypes that can be portrayed through material. One aim of the artist's work is to seek collision, resonance, and understatement from materials; through it, they express emotion and conception much more to the audience.
